

JAYCE'S WORLD

jaycesworld.co.uk

It has been a very busy and fulfilling past three months at Jayce's World.

From being honoured as the youngest Mentor at the World Literacy Foundation to receiving The Handwriting Award of the Year at my school, I've been actively involved in various literacy initiatives. I conducted storytime sessions and creative writing workshops in Sutton Coldfield libraries.

Besides, I had the rare privilege of exhibiting at Birmingham Children's Hospital. Participating in the inaugural Children's Black Book Festival was a highlight, along with sharing my journey on BBC Radio. Also, I launched my "Back to School" project, offering resources to pupils in need in Cameroon, and met actress Kelechi Okafor at her workshop.

YOUNGEST MENTOR AT WORLD LITERACY FOUNDATION

It's a privilege and huge honour to be the youngest Mentor at World Literacy Foundation. I aim to do my utmost best to support future projects for the betterment of humanity and for the future of the world.

STORYTIME AND CREATIVE WRITING SESSION

This summer, I delivered a storytime session and creative writing workshop at Bear Bookshop.

WORKSHOP AT BIRMINGHAM CITY COUNCIL LIBRAIRIES

In partnership with Birmingham City Council Libraries, I delivered four creative writing workshops for children 4-7 years in Sutton Coldfield libraries aimed at promoting reading and writing and reducing screentime while they are away from school.

I'm delighted to receive The Handwriting Award of The Year in this year's handwriting competition in my school. It is a foundational skill crucial for literacy success, teaching letter formation, and supporting reading and language acquisition in children.

VISIT TO BIRMINGHAM CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

I had the privilege to exhibit my resources at Birmingham Children's Hospital for the time. It was incredible to see the support from the staff, visitors, and patients alike. I also visited the Children's Learning Resource Centre and Fundraising Hub to build stronger connections and seek out opportunities to work together on initiatives.

FEATURED IN FIRST NEWS MAGAZINE

It was an honour to be featured in First News Magazine's July edition.

ATTENDED THE CHILDREN'S BLACK BOOK FESTIVAL

This Summer, I was honoured to be one of the participants to grace The Children's Black Book Festival inaugural. The event was organised by Young Lit Stars, in partnership with Hackney Library, London. Being the youngest child author made it even more special.

ATTENDED THE LAUNCH EVENT OF KINGDOM APPROACH

I attended the launch event of Kingdom Approach, a network of Black Christian Entrepreneurs and Investors. Meeting and sharing my story with the Deputy Mayor of Milton Keynes, Cllr James Lancaster, was a very transformative opportunity for me.

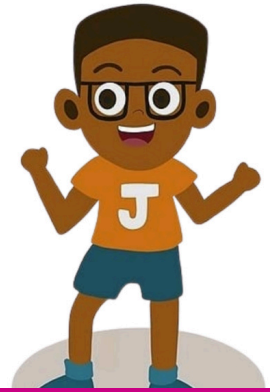

INTERVIEWED ON BBC RADIO

I was interviewed on BBC Radio by Presenter Merisha Stevenson to share my journey to becoming a young author and talk about the launch of my recent publication, Jayce's Alphabet Rules and Jayce's World of Learning Diverse Educational Gift Box.

IMPLEMENTED MY ANNUAL "BACK TO SCHOOL" PROJECT

My annual "Back To School" project kicked off this September – established in 2023 aimed at providing educational resources to the disadvantaged children in Africa. This year, I have reached out to over 80 primaries 1 and 2 pupils in two primary schools in the Littoral and Northwest Regions of Cameroon where the ongoing crisis has greatly impacted their learning. These children were provided with exercise books and stationeries for the academic year.
