HAPPY NEW YEAR 2025!

It's been an exciting time at Jayce's World since the last publication! During the past 3 months, I've had the great honour to partake in Europe's largest Black Book Festival and being recognised as the youngest recipient of The British Citizen Youth Award Medal of Honour at the House of Lords.

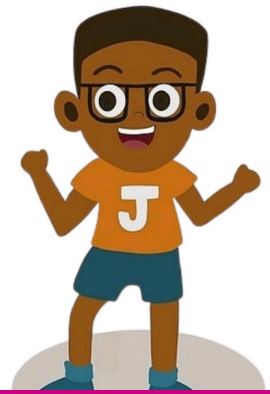

From delivering an amazing Storytime session for Black History Month to winning multiple awards, including The TruLittle Hero Awards, my journey has been filled with meaningful contributions to literacy and community.

Join me as I share highlights of my incredible journey during the last quarter of 2024, as well as my upcoming projects aimed at enhancing diversity and inclusion in children's education!

BARBICAN CENTRE: BLACK BRITISH BOOK FESTIVAL

Participated at Europe's largest Black Book Festival, Barbican Centre – Black British Book Festival as the youngest Author.

THE BRITISH CITIZEN YOUTH AWARD MEDAL OF HONOUR

Became the youngest recipient of The British Citizen Youth Award Medal of Honour – a ceremony that saw a total of 20 youths across the UK at the House of Lords on invitation of Baroness Cox of Queensbury & presented by Dame Mary Perkins, founder of Specsavers.

This serves as a recognition for my significant contribution to society and it allows me to use the post nominal BCyA.
